

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact:

Joleen Smith, Marketing Coordinator & Art Guide

Lost Pines Art Center

512-321-8055

press@lostpinesartcenter.org

“Telling Their Stories” Exhibit Highlights Inner Strength

BASTROP, TX, March 12, 2019—View the powerful photography of Karen and Steve Jackson at the Lost Pines Art Center in Bastrop, Texas from March 8th through April 7th, 2019. The “Telling Their Stories” exhibit features beautiful, dramatic images highlighting the inner strength of individuals despite the obstacles life puts in their way. The exhibit stars real people living in Bastrop County, and 50% of all sales will be donated to the Comfort Cafe in Smithville, Texas or the Austin Prosthetic Center.

Karen and Steve believe, “that everyone has obstacles they must overcome: age, illness, self-esteem, the list is limitless. However, there is an inner strength in all individuals despite these obstacles.” That is what the exhibit “Telling Their Stories” is all about – the human will to overcome, no matter the odds.

The Jacksons use real world locations and props to turn backdrops into dreamlike places that produce a wide array of emotional reactions for viewers. Some images are quiet, while others almost create a frenzy for the observer.

The final edited images are nothing like the images straight out of the camera. Compositing, editing, textures, and tonal changes all aid to create a final product that is surreal and captivating. They encourage viewers to analyze the images, ask questions, and create dialogue among others who may interpret the images differently.

There will be a reception for Karen and Steve Jackson on Saturday, Apr. 6th from 5:30-7:30pm at the Lost Pines Art Center, located at 1204 Chestnut Street in Bastrop, Texas. Wine and refreshments will be served.

###

About the Lost Pines Art Center: Nestled in the Lost Pines of historic downtown Bastrop, Texas, the Lost Pines Art Center is a modern and spacious art gallery where you can view and procure beautiful fine art, participate in a variety of classes and workshops, host your own private event, immerse yourself in art and culture, and explore your creativity!